

“Denizen” creature terrorizes small town.

March 24, 2008 -- J.A. Steel's latest feature film, "Denizen" is set to descend on Muskogee, Oklahoma within the month. Shooting for Steel's third feature is slated to begin production on April 24, 2008. The plot line is simple. Peace gets shattered in a small town, when suddenly a mysterious creature starts to leave a bloody trail. The last hope for the residents to fight the terror and prevent the destruction by military forces rests on the courage and the resourcefulness of a small group of scientists. But Steel's films are usually anything but simple.

"Denizen" will feature some underwater camera work by Steel, as well as scuba diving, fight scenes, and yet more aerial sequences. "I'm excited." Steel commented. "Year before last, I filmed "Salvation" entirely in Muskogee and Ft. Gibson. It's due out on video in July. It's nice to have a follow-up movie that's a cross between "The Third Society" and my last one." The underwater scuba scenes will be shot at Lake Tenkiller on an actual sunken town beneath the lake.

Steel herself is no stranger to scuba diving, producing the award winning documentary pilot "Dive the Deep Blue". Aqualung International and Riffe spearguns have added their names to the credits as product sponsors. Steel grins, "Guns underwater. It doesn't get any better than this." Steel always smiles when talking about any type of gun. Most of Steel's personal scuba diving gear is already made by Aqualung. "I use Aqualung's Legend for both my tech diving and recreational diving. I love their gear." Steel is a Cave Diver and has woven a bit of cave diving lore into the "Denizen" plot.

A comic is also in the works for "Denizen" as Steel's Warrior Entertainment has partnered with Lawrence White's White Eye Comics to bring the real world action characters to print.

"Denizen" will star Julie Corgill-Lisandro (Cheerleader Massacre), Glen Jensen (Fingerprints, Soul's Midnight), Ben Bayless and Jody Mullins with a special guest appearance by Tiffany Shepis (Nightmare Man, Abominable).
