

Warrior Entertainment's creature feature "Denizen" finds the "Light of Day"

The latest J.A. Steel film from Warrior Entertainment, "Denizen" will feature music from Salt Lake City band The Street. Steel is using three songs from the band, "Light of Day", "Walls" and "Devil's Dilemma." Recently, Promark Drumsticks supplied a product endorsement to The Street's drummer Rob Lambros to be featured with the band's cameo appearance in the film. With the addition of The Street to the "Denizen" soundtrack, Steel hopes for another award winning music score. Zaky Nova of the band 4Saken1 is once again providing songs and crafted the music for the "Denizen: Teaser Trailer" which screened at the Tulsa Defcon 7 to a standing room only audience and at the Trash Film Festival in Varazdin, Croatia.

Steel is in the process of completing principal photography on "Denizen." The plot of the film revolves around a small group of scientists that must stop a creature from terrorizing a small town before the town's annihilation by the military. The cast is led by Julie Lisandro "Cheerleader Massacre", Glen Jensen "Fingerprints," with "Salvation" veterans Jody Mullins and Ben Bayless rounding out the cast. White Eye Comics and Lawrence White are currently developing a comic based on the feature.

As "Denizen" heads into post-production, Steel has begun moving production operations from Oklahoma where "Denizen" and "Salvation" were shot to Salt Lake City, Utah. Called "The Roger Corman of the 21st Century" it is no wonder Steel wants to film closer to home, her production slate for 2009 includes "Operation: Overlord", an untitled comedy feature, a horror webseries, and a romantic comedy television pilot.
