Want to see a movie this week?

If so, people might want to head down to the Roxy Theatre in Muskogee on Thursday, April 22 for the world premiere of Denizen, a low-budget sci-fi movie filmed in the Muskogee area, set in the Muskogee area and starring a few area natives.

The movie starts at 8 p.m.

The movie is just one of many which is being featured at the Barebones Film Festival which spotlights short films and independent movies.

Denizen was filmed in and around the Muskogee area in April of 2008 and stars Julie Corgill, a native of Broken Arrow, and Glen Jensen, a native of Wagoner.

Jensen, a stand-up comedian and actor who now calls Philadelphia home, said he is looking forward to coming back to his "old stomping grounds."

"I'm excited," he said. "I'm excited the movie is doing well."

Denizen is being distributed by Indieflix.

For more on this, see the April 22 print edition.
